DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 31-50, 53, 54, 56, 57 and 63, drawn to a system for computer-aided management of a numerically controlled industrial processing machine, are classified in class 700, subclass 174.
  - II. Claims 51, 52, 55, 58-62 and 64-84, drawn to a method for computer-aided production and provision of machine-related content in a host computer in communication via a data communication link with a client computer, are classified in class 700, subclass 169.
  - III. Claims 85-93, drawn to an apparatus for computer-aided provision of machine-related content to a client computer in communication with a processing machine operated by a customer, are classified in class 709, subclass 203.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as managing transmission of machine state data from a client computer to a host computer and invention II has separate utility such as producing and provisioning machine-related content in a host computer. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

3. Inventions I and III are related as combination and subcombination.

Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the system for computer-aided management of a numerically controlled industrial processing machine does not require information relating to the availability of machine-related content or a request for machine-related content from the client computer. The subcombination has separate utility such as provisioning machine-related content to a client computer in communication with a processing machine operated by a customer.

4. Inventions II and III are related as combination and subcombination.

Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because a method for computer-aided production and provision of machine-related content in a host computer in communication via a data communication link with a client computer does not require information relating to the availability of machine-related content or a request for machine-related content from the client computer. The subcombination has separate utility such as provisioning machine-related content to a client computer in communication with a processing machine operated by a customer.

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I is not required for Group II or III, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. A telephone call was made to Scott T. Weingaertner, Reg. No. 37,756 on 15 July 2004 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

8. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Crystal J. Barnes whose telephone number is 703.306.5448. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday alternate Mondays off.
